CARL MORRIS IN SUPERB RECITAL

New York Baritone Receives Plaudits of His Former Friends With a Just Appreciation.

WINS ADMIRATION OF ALL

For Encore He Selects Appropriate
Song, "Thoughts of Home,"
Which Expresses Sentiment.

Carl Morris was welcomed home last night. His friends, his admirers and those who are so well versed in the musical arts to know that he is master of his voice and can make it obey his every impulse, were all there to cheer him on the greater efforts. And the result was that the song recital last night was probably the best he ever gave. He believed that himself.

Carl Morris appreciated the reception he was tendered. He has sung here twice before since he has become famous in New York as a baritone soloist, but last night was the first time that he ever appeared in a full recital. The applause was of the kind that goes home and touches the sentimental heart strings.

"I think a lot of Rushville," said Mr. Morris today, "for treating me the way it has. You see I have sung here three times in four years, and each time I have been treated so cordially that I will always have a warm spot in my heart for Rushville. It is that kind of praise—the appreciation of one's work—that stirs him to greater efforts, and makes him strive for triumphs."

After the recital former friends, some of them playmates who romped with Carl when Carl was a boy down in Noble township, crowded to the platform to shake his hand and let him know how much they appreciated him for the success he had made, and for the fame that he had brought to himself. The little informal reception continued for fifteen minutes while almost every person in the audience congratulated him on the recital.

Mr. Morris was probably at his best in the aria "Eri Tu," which is a part of Verdi's "The Masked Ball." While this aria, which was sung in Italian, would, it was supposed, be the least popular of any one of the numbers which Mr. Morris sang it was apparently the best appreciated and best received.

He was given a generous amount of applause at the conclusion of his rendition of the aria, and after he had bowed his appreciation, the audience was so insistent that he was compelled to respond with an encore. He sang "Philosophy," by Emmell.

It was a clever little tune—it might be described as a story with a good point. It was here that Mr. Morris displayed his best assets—his perfection enunciation. It is his best asset in the eyes of a Rushville audience at any rate, because he speaks the words so plainly that one can not help but understand them. This characteristic thing was true of all his renditions.

Mr. Morris' youth, his superb dramatic and vocal talents were best displayed in the aria. He fact that the singer's voice has all of the technical perfection that is to be found in a seasoned vocalist aroused the wonder and admiration of the Rushville audience.

His magnetic personality helped him greatly. His vivacious manner of expression, the declamatory nature which was necessary in the aria, and the wonderful vibrancy of his voice were all clearly brought out in his selection from "The Masked Ball."

MAYOR FAILED TO SIGN ORDINANCE

Automobile Cut Out Law Received
Little Attention From Black—Opposed Because Norris Is.

WILL BE PUBLISHED 10 DAYS

The automobile cut out ordinance will become a law without the signature of Mayor Black as the ten days' limit expired yesterday and his name was not affixed to the ordinance. Mayor Black has given no reason for not signing the law. Councilman Parsons who introduced the ordinance claims that Mayor Black is opposed to the measure simply because Councilman Norris did not favor it.

As was stated a few days ago by the city attorney, it is now up to City Clerk Cauley to have the law published. It must be published ten days and then becomes effective. In this manner the mayor's signature is not necessary.

NAMED A MEMBER COLLEGE FACULTY

Miss Jean Bishop is Appointed Instructor in Music in Hamilton College at Lexington.

TO BEGIN AT FALL OPENING

Miss Jean Bishop will be a member of the faculty of Hamilton College at Lexington, Kentucky, next year. She will take the position next September at the opening of the fall term. Miss Bishop will teach a class in music, and she will have in addition a class in musical history. Miss Ora Wilson, formerly of this city, who has been librarian at Hamilton College for the last few years, was instrumental in obtaining the appointment for Miss Bishop. Miss Bishop has been a resident of this city since the summer of 1908 when she was graduated from DePauw University at Greencastle. She has a large circle of friends here who are loathe to see her leave the city, but who, at the same time, are rejoicing with her because of the appointment. Miss Bishop has had a class in music during her residence here.

HIS ESCAPE IS A NEAR MIRACLE

A. M. Price, Tender at Hitchrack, is Trampled by Wild Horse
This Morning.

ANIMAL BREAKS BIG POST

Witnesses to Accident Thought Agul
Man Would be Killed—His Injuries Not Serious.

A. M. Price, 318 West Tenth street, miraculously escaped serious or possibly fatal injury at the hitchrack back of the county jail this morning when he was knocked down and trampled on by a frightened horse. A buggy passed over his body and he was otherwise banged around, but he came out of the melee with little more than a few bruises and a bad scare.

The physician who waited on him said that Mr. Price would probably be able to attend to his duties as rack-tender in the course of three or four days. After the accident, he was placed in the doctor's automobile and taken to the office where he was carefully examined.

A heavy draft horse, hitched to a buggy, frightened for some unaccountable reason while standing hitched to a post about ten feet west of the little house in which Price stays. The horse lunged and tugged, and then began kicking. Men who witnessed the unusual actions of the horse could see no reason for its actions and decided that it was driven to distraction by flies.

Hearing the disturbance Mr. Price ran to the horse's head to attempt to quiet it. The horse only ranted the more. Mr. Price had no more than taken hold of the horse's bridle when it made one terrific bolt and broke off the four-inch post to which it was hitched squarely at the ground.

The cracking of the post and the shaft which broke, and the releasing of a large sign which was supported by the hitching post and fell over on the animal's back only served to frighten it a thousand fold. The horse, still kicking and lunging, directed its course toward Mr. Price, dragging the heavy post, sign and chain which connected the post to other posts, along with it.

Mr. Price was unable to escape from the melee. There was no course left open for him but to make that attempt. His efforts to stop the horse were all vain. Trying to protect himself from the attacks of the horse he started to run, but was knocked down either by the post which the horse dragged or by a blow from the horse's hoofs.

Men in the shops across the street had been attracted by his cries. The whole thing transpired in such a very short time that they could hardly act. They turned their heads when they saw the horse lunging about, with Mr. Price down on the ground, fully expecting that he would be stamped to death.

Finally a workman in Jim Mullin's blacksmith shop rushed across and managed to control the horse after it was so entangled in the chains that it could not move. Mr. Price was carried into his little house there and Dr. H. V. Logan was called.

The rack-tender never lost consciousness, but men who saw the accident were convinced that he was fatally hurt. He is very old and this was thought to be decidedly against him. But in the examination, Dr. Logan could not find that he was very seriously hurt.

NEW FEATURE FOR THE CHAUTAUQUA

Woman Will Lecture For First Time in History of Rush County Assembly.

BOY LEADER IS EMPLOYED

He Will Teach Rushville Youths Rudiments of Boy Scout Work—
Popular Diversion.

The talent committee of the Rush County Chautauqua Association has arranged with the Redpath Lyceum Bureau for a leader of boys to come here during the chautauqua which will be held at the city park August fourth to August eleventh, inclusive. The name of the man who will have charge of the boys in the afternoons has not yet been announced.

The special feature last year similar to the one which will be tried this year was popular from the beginning. It will be recalled there was a young woman who entertained the children each afternoon with folklore stories. She took the children off to a shady hook in the park for their program, and it proved to be a very attractive feature.

The boy leader this year will have something of interest for the boys. He will teach them the rudiments of Boy Scout work for one thing. This is expected to meet with favor among the boys of Rushville as two clubs of Boy Scouts have already been formed here.

Another distinctly new feature of the Rush county assembly will be the lecture by Mrs. Lenora M. Lake, who will appear Thursday afternoon. She will lecture on "The Divine Right of a Child." It will be the first time a woman has ever lectured before the chautauqua. Few have elicited more favorable comment from the press than has she. A few of them follow:

The stirring address of the evening was that of Mrs. Lenora M. Lake of St. Louis, fraternal delegate of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union to the World's W. C. T. U. Convention in Toronto, Canada. This Irish woman is a born orator, who was born again a better one when her heart was enlisted in the temperance cause. When she said that it was not indifference to home and children, but concern for them—not ambition, but conscience—which made women speak in public for temperance, the heart of the audience felt the truth of this.—The Outlook.

Mrs. Lake is one of the most gifted lady speakers on the platform today. She has a splendid delivery, and her lecture, which was couched in language which even a child could understand, was full of wit, humor and good hard common sense. She is a very rapid speaker, never lacks for a word, her illustrations are clear cut, her arguments are convincing and her talk charmed and delighted all who heard it. That she made a decided hit in Hannibal was shown by the fact that she was frequently interrupted by vigorous applause.—Hannibal (Mo.) Morning Journal.

In introducing Mrs. Lenora Marie Lake, who has a national reputation as a temperance worker, at the chautauqua Monday afternoon, Platform Manager Atkinson said the best gift Ireland had given America was Mrs. Lake. Mrs. Lake told some wholesome truths in a forceful way in the course of her lecture. "The Divine Rights of the Child," which was one of the best yet delivered at the chautauqua. Mrs. Lake is one of the most able women orators of the country.—Paris (Ill.) Daily News.

The business session of the national convention of the Psi Iota Xi sorority concluded Thursday afternoon with the election of the grand officers. Meetings had been held both in the morning and afternoon at the parlors of the Bundy hotel, says the Newcastle Courier. The only business of importance transacted in the morning was the granting of a chapter to Cincinnati.

In the afternoon grand officers were elected as follows: Grand president, Miss Margaret Gillies of this city; grand vice-president, Miss Elaine Jones of Richmond; grand secretary, Miss Lola Jackson of Muncie; grand treasurer, Miss Fernie Kieffer of Dayton, Ohio.

Rushville, Indiana, was the place selected for the convention next year.

RUSH COUNTY FIRM GETS BIG CONTRACT

Rush-Decatur County Line Road Will be Constructed by S. H. Colter & Son.

CONTRACT PRICE IS $10,450

M. S. Ball, J. E. Harrison and Thomas J. Humes, constituting the board of commissioners of Rush county, came here Friday to meet with the Decatur county board of commissioners in regard to the county line road that was petitioned for by George M. Meek et al., says the Greensburg News.

Both boards agreed on the road being built, and the contract was let to S. H. Colter & Son of Rushville, for the sum of $10,450. Luke Terhune, a Decatur county man, was appointed superintendent of the road. The county line pike is some three miles in length. Work on the same is to commence immediately.

The only other bid made was $10,800. It was presented by Wm. Ens-weller.

The injunction suit of Wm. Wainwright vs. the P. H. and P. F. Roots Co., et al has been sent to this county on a change of venue from Fayette county.

DEMOCRATS STILL AT SEA

Fourteenth Ballot in National Convention Fails to Make Any Material Change.

CLARK LEADS BY 192 VOTES

Wilson Continues to Gain Few Votes on Every Roll Call—His Test to Come.

[Special to the Daily Republican.] Baltimore, June 29.—The fourteenth ballot for President at the Democratic national convention here did not result in a nomination. The candidates' support was about the same as it was on the preceding ballot, which was the first one taken today.

The 14th ballot resulted as follows: Clark, 553; Wilson, 361; Underwood, 111; Harmon, 29; Marshall, 30; Bryan, 2; Kern, 2.

The convention adjourned at 3:05 o'clock this morning, and took a recess until 1:06 this afternoon when it reconvened. Twelve ballots were taken between four o'clock yesterday afternoon and three o'clock this morning.

Before the roll call on the fourteenth ballot Bryan attempted to gain the floor, and was greeted with mingled hisses from the Clark supporters and cheers from the remainder of the delegates and the spectators.

When the State of Nebraska was called, Bryan was given the right to speak. He said that as long as the New York delegation stood with Clark, he would have to withhold his vote from him. Bryan is a delegate-at-large from Nebraska, and was instructed to vote for Clark. He finally gained the platform and made an earnest plea for a thorough-going progressive.

The result of the first ballot this afternoon was Clark, 554; Wilson, 356½; Underwood, 115½; Harmon, 29; Marshall, 30; Foss, 2; Bryan, 1.

This puts Clark back on the same standing as he was on the eleventh ballot early this morning. On the twelfth he lost 7½ votes. Wilson gained 2½ votes over the twelfth ballot.

This was the situation when the fifth day's session of the convention opened this afternoon. Champ Clark, speaker of the national house of representatives, had his chance and failed. He had reached high water mark on the tenth ballot when he received 556 votes, only a little more than the majority of the votes in the convention.

On the two succeeding ballots he began to go backward. His managers were almost willing to admit that his nomination was an impossibility. In the course of twelve ballots Woodrow Wilson, Governor of New Jersey, had increased his vote from 324 to 354. The supreme test for him had not yet come. It seemed probable that early in the afternoon he would have his real "try-out."

Judson Harmon, Governor of Ohio, had practically dropped out of the race. He showed his maximum strength on the seventh ballot when 123½ delegates voted for him. On the twelfth ballot he dropped to twenty-nine. The fluctuation in the balloting was not regarded as important, for it had been apparent for three days that Harmon was not really in the running.

Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, chairman of the ways and means committee of the national house of representatives, continued to hold his own. He entered the race with 117½ votes and on the twelfth ballot he received 123.

His support showed no signs of

DOUBLE TRACKING
HALF COMPLETED

Work on Pennsylvania Railroad Be-tween Dunreith and Dublin is Progressing Nicely.

TRAINS ON NEXT MONTH

The double tracking of the Penn-sylvania railroad between Dublin and Dunreith, which began last January is nearly half completed, and trains will be running on the new track be-tween Dublin and Lewisville early in July.

A force of twenty-five teams is now working on the grade at each end of the Dublin-Dunreith contract. One division is grading at the east edge of Straughn, another between Straughn and Lewisville, and a third between Dunreith and Lewisville.

The steam shovel finished its work on the new grade through the east end of Lewisville to a distance of one necessary repairs and putting the crew is now engaged in making all necessary repairs and putting the gigantic shovel in first class condi-tion for work on the west end of the cut through Lewisville, which is much heavier than the one just finished. The shovel will start on this cut as soon as the concrete work will permit. The dinky force likewise is overhauling the engines and repairing bad dump cars.

Mrs. M. A. McLaughlin, 513 Jay St., LaCross, Wis., writes that she suffered all kinds of pains in her back and hips on account of kidney trouble and rheumatism. "I got some Foley Kidney Pills and after taking them for a few days there was a wonderful change in my case, for the pain entirely left my back and hips and I am thankful there is such a medicine as Foley Kidney Pills." F. B. Johnson & Co.

Swat the Fly

The Indiana State Board of Health is not relaxing its campaign against the housefly, and the battle cry "Swat the fly," is being continu-ed all over the State. The fly season is at hand now and the people are asked to redouble their efforts to put the insect out of business.

One of the latest things put out by the State Board is the "Fly Cate-chism." It runs something like this:

1. Where is the fly born? In manure and filth.
2. Where does the fly live? In all kinds of filth and he carries filth on his feet and wings.
3. Where does the fly go when he leaves the manure pile, the privy vault and the spittoon? He goes in-to the kitchen, the dining room and the store.
4. What does the fly do there? He walks on the bread, fruit and vegetables; he wipes his feet on the butter and he bathes in the milk.
5. Does the fly visit sick with consumption, typhoid fever and cholera infantum? He does and he may call on you next day carrying the infection of these diseases.
6. What diseases does the fly carry? Typhoid fever, consumption, diarrhoeal diseases, diphtheria, scarlet fever, and in fact any com-municable disease.
7. How can the fly be prevented? By destroying all the filth about your premises, covering the manure bin, burning all waste matter, screening your house and destroying your garbage.

Another unique attack on the fly

Mrs. Lela Love, wife of Wiley Love, a farmer living near Covent, Ga., says: "I have taken Foley Kid-ney Pills and find them to be all you claim for them. They gave me al-most instant relief when my kidneys were sluggish and inactive. I can cheerfully recommend them to all sufferers from kidney troubles." F. B. Johnson & Co.

has been issued in the form of "The Journal of a Female-House Fly." It reads as follows:

Thursday, November 2, 1911. Went into winter headquarters. Barely went through the long, hard winter.

April 20, 1912. Come out of win-ter quarters and laid my first batch of eggs, 120 in number, in a manure heap.

April 21, 1912. My first 120 eggs have hatched.

April 22, 1912. Larvae have un-dergone first moult.

April 23, 1912. Larvae have un-dergone second moult.

April 26, 1912. Larvae trans-formed in pupae.

May 1, 1912. One hundred and twenty full grown flies, sixty of which are females.

May 3, 1912. Laid my second batch of 120 eggs.

May 13, 1912. One hundred and twenty flies came from my second batch of eggs. Laid my third batch in a kind neighbor's garbage can.

May 20, 1912. The city has offer-ed a prize to the school child killing the largest number of flies. The boy at the house where I live is kill-ing flies right and left. And to think—we have all been eating at the same table with him.

May 21, 1912. Laid my fourth batch of eggs. Left alone and un-hindered by September 10, 1912, my descendants will number 5,593,720,000,000.

The extreme cold of last winter was supposed to have destroyed most of the flies but they seem to be back on the job again this year as usual.

LET US SHOW YOU NO-RIM-CUT TIRES

You are undoubtedly convinced that you should use No-Rim-Cut tires. Every motorist has read about No-Rim-Cut tires again and again in the magazines and newspapers. You have read how the 10 per cent oversize and No-Rim-Cut features cut the bills in two. You have wanted these tires. They are here now. Let us show you.

NO-RIM-CUT FEATURE

No-Rim-Cut tires have six tapes of 126 braided wires in the base, making the base absolutely unstretchable. Nothing can force the tire out of the rim channel. A hooked base is not necessary to hold the No-Rim-Cut tire on. The hooked side of the rings are turned away from the tire. Then the tire, when deflated, rests on the rounded side of the rings. Rim-cutting is impossible.

10 PER CENT OVERSIZE

GOOD YEAR

When a car is overloaded the tires get that extra strain. That hastens breakdowns—means blowouts. No-Rim-Cut tires are made 10 per cent oversize to provide for overload. The construction allows that extra carrying capacity. That oversize saves all that overloading costs.

Consider these features and what they save the motorists. No-Rim-Cut tires cost no more than standard clincher tires. Why shouldn't you adopt No-Rim-Cut tires? Come and see them and you will.

A NIGHT OF FRUITLESS BALLOTING

Democrats In Hopeless Deadlock.

BROKE ALL RECORDS

Twelve Ballots Taken Up to Three O'clock.

DELEGATES WERE WORN OUT

At That Hour Adjournment Was Taken Until 1 Today.

Baltimore, June 29.—After having tried vainly for twelve ballots to nominate a candidate for president, the Democratic convention adjourned at 3:05 o'clock this morning. The convention apparently was hopelessly deadlocked. The twelfth ballot, taken at about 3 o'clock, stood: Clark, 549; Wilson, 354; Underwood, 123; Harmon, 29; Marshall, 30; Bryan, 1; Kern, 1.

The convention met again at 1 o'clock this afternoon, when the balloting was resumed.

Preceding the early morning adjournment, Mr. Bryan had told the reporters he would not accept a nomination, and declared he would leave the hall if a demonstration was started for him. At that time United States Senator John W. Kern of Indiana was being talked of as a compromise to break the deadlock.

AN EVENTFUL DAY

Details of the Balloting in Democratic Convention.

Baltimore, June 29.—With all of the wind jamming and hoarding and sky-larking out of the way, the Democratic national convention reassembled at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon for the sober business of nominating the candidates. The 1,088 weary delegates, still heavy-eyed from the all-night session that came to nothing except the first official showdown of strength, were in their seats at the time set for convening. They sweated in the blanketing heat for the brand of weather was the most trying of any since the sessions began. There were no cheers for anybody at the outset. It was too hot.

Naturally the delegates knew little of what was going on behind the scenes. The undercurrents ran too deep for them. But even the big bosses, the handful who do things, appeared to be drifting, waiting for a cue upon which to act.

The first ballot of the afternoon session was started at 4:25 and was run off smoothly and swiftly. The galleries and floor kept pretty good order. The delegates, tired after the night session, were not disposed to trifle. The ballot resulted as follows: Clark, 446 1/2; Wilson, 339 1/2; Harmon, 141; Underwood, 111 1/2; Baldwin, 14; Marshall, 31; Sulzer, 2; Bryan, 2. This was a gain over the early morning test ballot of 6 1/2 for Clark and 15 1/2 for Wilson. Harmon lost 7 votes, Underwood 6 1/2, and the Bryan and Sulzer votes were unchanged. All were far from the necessary two-thirds.

The puzzled condition in which the leaders found themselves was strikingly manifested by the numerous whispered conferences which were being held in the "bosses' avenue"—the center aisle—along which sat Murphy of New York, Sullivan of Illinois, Taggart of Indiana, Tom Brown of Vermont, and "Gum Shoe Bill" Stone of Missouri. Tom Brown's lips were within a quarter of an inch of the left ear of Senator Stone, and that veteran master of craft promptly pussy-footed up to the chairman's perch. It looked as if everybody who had any say in this game were seeing Murphy. That chieftain, safely chaperoned by Charles "Reliable" White, the old prize fight referee, and bulwarked by perhaps the most notable set of big lawyers in the country, William F. Sheehan, John B. Stanchfield, Morgan J. O'Brien and Alton B. Parker, listened, nodded one way or the other, and never indicated by the flicker of an eyelid what he was thinking about. The fascinating problem of the game was which way the associated bosses eventually would jump.

The result of the third ballot was announced: Underwood, 112; Clark, 443; Wilson, 349 1/2; Harmon, 136 1/2; Baldwin, 14; Marshall, 31; Kern, 2.

Fourth ballot: Clark, 443; Wilson, 349 1/2; Harmon, 136 1/2; Underwood, 112; Marshall, 31; Baldwin, 14; Kern, 2. This was the first ballot that no vote was cast for Bryan. Clark gained two votes, Wilson 4 1/2; Harmon lost 4; Underwood lost 2; Marshall and Baldwin held their own.

On the fifth ballot there was a rat ting surprise. Connecticut dropped the hopeless Baldwin candidacy and split up. Underwood got 9, the lion's share, Clark 4 and Wilson 1. This ballot was announced as follows: Clark, 443 1/2; Wilson, 351 1/2; Harmon, 143; Underwood, 119 1/2; Marshall, 31; Kern, 2. This was a gain of 6 1/2 for Harmon, 2 1/2 for Wilson and a loss of 7 1/2 for Underwood. Clark's vote did not change.

The crowd was pleased when shortly after the result of this ballot was announced Chairman James declared an adjournment until 9:30 at night, but the delegates who wanted to get home growled.

The interest in the balloting was so keen that 10,000 people stuck to the seats in the two-hour recess. The outlook was for a long session. A conference of the leaders had failed to bring about an agreement on a candidate who would be acceptable to progressives and conservatives, and the leaders were hoping to get together on the floor and bring about an agreement that would prevent a deadlock and the consequent annoyances. The talk was again of Kern as a compromise candidate. It was whispered that Bryan had given up hope of winning with Wilson, and that he intended to make an effort to stampede the convention for his friend from Indiana.

The roll call proceeded rapidly. There was no change in the standing of the candidates until Michigan was reached. Here Wilson lost a vote. The vote as a whole was sufficient evidence that the leaders had not been able to make a good dicker. New York continued to vote for Harmon. The result of the sixth ballot was: Clark, 445, a gain of 2; Wilson, 354, a gain of 3; Underwood, 121, a gain of 2; Harmon, 135, a loss of 6 1/2; Marshall, 31, unchanged; Kern, 1, a loss of 1, and Bryan, 1, unchanged.

As the seventh ballot got under way at 10:20 o'clock, the floor conferences between the leaders began again. Result of the seventh ballot: Clark, 449 1/2; Wilson, 352 1/2; Harmon, 129 1/2; Underwood, 123 1/2; Marshall, 31; Bryan, 1; Kern, 1.

Eighth ballot: Clark, 448 1/2; Wilson, 351 1/2; Underwood, 130; Harmon, 123; Marshall, 31; Gaynor, 1; Bryan, 1; Kern, 1; James, 1. This was said to set a record for number of ballots at a Democratic convention. The highest previous record of ballots is given as seven.

Ninth ballot: Clark, 452; Wilson, 352 1/2; Underwood, 122 1/2; Harmon, 127; Marshall, 31; Kern, 1; Bryan, 1; Gaynor, 1.

When in the tenth ballot Murphy announced "New York casts its ninety votes for Clark," there was a half hour's demonstration in behalf of the Missourian. As the voting continued Clark gained two votes in Ohio, but lost one in North Carolina to Wilson. Then Oklahoma was called and Alfalfa Bill Murray started a rumpus. The delegation voting the twenty for Clark, and ten for Wilson. Alfalfa Bill protested against the chairman of the delegation voting the twenty for Clark, although he admitted that of the ten men for Wilson two of them were Clark men, but who had been instructed for Wilson and were voting for him. As the unit applies in Oklahoma, the majority will be for Clark.

"But we refuse to join with Tammany," shouted Alfalfa Bill. Up jumped the Wilson contingent. They howled for Alfalfa Bill and cheered for Wilson. Tammany was hissed and the crowd booed. The chair directed Oklahoma to vote Wilson, 10; Clark, 10.

Congressman John J. Fitzgerald, the floor leader for the New York delegation, went to the platform and stood at the chairman's elbow. Evidently New York intended to rush through Clark's nomination if possible. At 1 o'clock Bryan came into the hall and took his seat with the Nebraska delegation. A messenger had carried word to him that New York had gone over to Clark. The Wilson men welcomed him with a ringing yell. The story was that the Wilson men, alarmed by the developments, had sent for Bryan, hoping that he would check the Clark advance or lead the Wilson forces. All the delegations around New York, Illinois and Indiana were jumping up and down on chairs, but the men in these three delegations sat quietly while they were jeered and hooted.

There were shrieks of enthusiasm when a large-sized picture of Wilson with the inscription, "Wilson for president," was carried to the front of the speaker's stand and faced to the audience. The Wilson demonstration continued more than half an hour.

At 1:41 the tenth ballot was announced as follows: Kern, 1; Bryan, 1; Marshall, 31; Underwood, 117 1/2; Wilson, 350 1/2; Clark, 556; Harmon, 31. Eleventh ballot: Underwood, 118 1/2; Wilson, 354 1/2; Harmon, 29; Marshall, 30; Bryan, 1; Kern, 1; Clark, 554. Wilson gained four votes; Underwood one and Clark lost four. By this time many of the delegates were getting tired of the performance and were insisting that the leaders either take a recess or come to some understanding.

The vote on the twelfth ballot was: Bryan, 1; Kern, 1; Marshall, 30; Underwood, 123; Wilson, 354; Harmon, 29; Clark, 549. Convention then adjourned until 1 o'clock today.

COASTWISE SEAMEN WILL GO ON STRIKE

Atlantic Companies Refuse to Renew Agreement.

New York, June 29.—Tomorrow a strike of coastwise seamen will begin. This move was decided on last night at a meeting of the Atlantic Coast Seamen's union and the Marine Firemen's union at the seamen's headquarters, 229 West street.

The agreement with the seven companies against which the strike is directed does not expire until Sunday night. The action was precipitated by a conference with the representatives of the companies in the evening, at which they refused to renew the agreement and reiterated their open shop policy for the future.

An attempt will be made to get the longshoremen to quit. The number of men who will be immediately affected is estimated by the union leaders at from 25,000 to 50,000, but the representatives of the companies say that not a tenth of this smaller number will be involved.

Time to Deliberate.

The Chicago convention has come and gone, and it is of course needless to say that its work is not satisfactory to all Republicans. Many of us think we could have handled the great problems which were before it better than the convention handled them. Or, at least, we have our opinions of what should have been done. Whether, in the present state of the public mind, it would have been possible, taking the country over, to have sent ten hundred and seventy-eight other Republicans to the convention and from them obtained other and better results may be doubted.

In the heat of excitement and sway of passion it was not an easy task that confronted the convention; nor is the present a good time for hasty action or final judgment.

There is plenty of time for deliberation and reflection. Opinions formed in haste are not always right, and what we all want is to be right. In any event the country is safe and some time in some way good will come out of this unhappy condition and experience.

Of the platform, we think it would be difficult to make a better one, and that is an essential fact which should be gratifying to all Republicans. But for the lamentable personal differences which have recently estranged and embittered Taft and Roosevelt, and until then, it must in fairness be said that either of these leaders could have consistently accepted and proclaimed this platform as the true progressive Republican faith. This is indisputable and most of us are or should be more concerned in principles than in men. But we are not arguing these questions now.

Sam Sanderson Says:

Keeping Home Trade.

When a person who buys goods freely out of town that could be had at home, is asked why the foreign merchant is preferred, one frequent answer is "I hate to go into a home store where I am known personally, unless I am sure I am going to buy."

This is, of course, illogical. The old fashioned merchant sometimes got mad because the customer did not buy. Experience teaches every seller of goods, whether clerk or proprietor, to make a particular point of acting good natured when the customer goes away without buying. No one need hesitate to examine goods on this account.

Nevertheless, this feeling exists to some extent. There is just one efficient way of fighting against it, and that is through advertising.

When an article is advertised attractively, the sale is practically made when the newspaper is read. The customer loses the aimless spirit and goes straight to the man whose account of wares was thus pleasing.

Under those circumstances, a customer not merely feels that she can make the purchase without disappointing some one, but that she has not got to spend time shopping all over town to find what she wants.

The principal method of convincing a national convention of the truth of your political philosophy is not to cite the Constitution and the Fathers of the Republic, but to bring on a pretty girl in a hobble skirt.

The steam roller proves a labor-saving machine at the conventions, but the old fashioned method of applause by hand work still continues, though a callopie would be much more efficient.

Convention Comments

Before and during the progress of the Republican national convention at Chicago the country heard much about the "steam roller" and its use. Now from the Democratic convention at Baltimore comes the same angry protest against the employment of the "steam roller."

What is a "steam roller?" In everyday affairs it is known to be a heavy and powerful machine used to pack gravel, broken stone and concrete on roads. As such, nobody fears or condemns it, for it does its work well.

In politics, however, the "steam roller" is a different proposition, and the people who are not permitted to ride on it, or drive it, run alongside and emit anathemas at it. As a matter of fact, the operation of the political "steam roller" is nothing more nor less than the exercise of the will of the majority.

At Chicago the adherents of President Taft were in the majority on the national committee, and in the determination of contests gave their votes to the delegates who had been regularly elected and certified. Some, the most of them, were Taft supporters others adherents of Roosevelt. All through the proceedings of the committee and the convention the cry of "steam roller" was kept up by the minority leaders, and why? Because the majority was exercising its power to promote the interests of its candidate instead of yielding to the demand and dictation of Roosevelt and his followers, who, with the same opportunity, would have "steam rolled" the opposition in the same way. It would be silly to suppose or presume otherwise.

At Baltimore the same proceedings are underway. The struggle between the "conservatives" and "progressives" for possession of the "steam roller" is on and growing in fierceness every hour, and whichever faction gains possession will use it to promote the interests of the majority.

Progressives, so-called, Republicans and Democrats, have made majority rule their long suit, but the moment they find themselves outvoted or out numbered, they raise the cry of fraud, thievery, deceit, treachery, etc., to fool the people. No living politician has so successfully worked that trick as has Roosevelt, but his last exhibition at Chicago was so rank, so hopelessly void of reasonable excuse, that he will have little sympathy, even among former friends, in his political downfall.

(Decatur Herald.)

The bitter and relentless contest for the Republican nomination for president between Taft and Roosevelt is ended, and Mr. Taft is again the Republican nominee. He has been a good president, a safe and sane president—not infallible, but at least as free from mistakes as his immediate predecessor, Theodore Roosevelt, and much more consistent in his record. He has been a progressive Republican. His administration has

The election of President Taft can not safely be predicted. Colonel Roosevelt has turned his back upon the Republican party and proposes to become an independent candidate for president. This not only means a division of the Republican party in the country at large, but in all probability in the states. We shall have, probably, two tickets, made up of men who have heretofore acted with the Republicans, in each State and congressional district, and possibly in counties.

The Herald is a Republican paper. Its editors are life-long Republicans. This paper will therefore remain an advocate of Republican policies and Republican principles as adopted at the Chicago convention. We believe President Taft is entitled to the support of loyal Republicans everywhere, and so believing shall urge his support at the election in November. If the Republican party is to be destroyed the Herald will not be a party to its destruction.

(Anderson Herald.)

Since 1860 the history of the Republican party has been the history of the nation.

The nation has faced a number of great crises in the elapsing fifty-two years and has ever looked for the Republican party to solve them.

And it is because of its past that all patriotic Americans look for the Republican party to solve those of today and those of tomorrow.

It has ever been a sad day for the nation when the Democratic party has come into power, and its fearful past gives no hope for the future.

The great fundamental truths upon which Republicanism was founded have resulted in the formulation of policies that are sound and patriotic.

These truths and the policies in which they are given concrete form must and shall be maintained by the only organization which is qualified and fitted to do so—the Republican party.

The upholding the maintenance of the fundamental doctrines of the party are ever the first consideration. No matter how important may seem the determination of the newer issues, they sink into insignificance as compared with the rock upon which the national edifice is raised.

No man who believes in nationalism, who believes in a greater nation, who believes in sound money and the national honor, who believes in the protective tariff, can for a moment think to set these aside for the newer issues by placing the Democratic party, the party of a thousand mistakes, in power.

VAN DERRY MAY YET GET HIS FREEDOM

Man Who "Peached" on Comrades in New Palestine Bank Robbery, Appeals For Parole.

HIS PETITION BEFORE BOARD

The State Board of Pardons, in session this week at Indianapolis, will have under consideration a petition for the parole of Van Derry. Derry was sentenced from Marion county in 1911 for one to fourteen years for grand larceny, having engaged in a bank robbery at New Palestine. A petition for this parole was presented by Ora Postlewaite of Indianapolis.

Others of Derry's friends sought his release on the ground that he had given the State evidence in the trial of a gang of robbers, and that his evidence had been instrumental in the conviction of several desperate police characters. The statement was quoted as coming from Judge Markey of the Marion criminal court.

WILL RUN A SPECIAL TRAIN

At a regular meeting of the local tribe of Red Men held Thursday night, the following committee was appointed to attend an ox roast and big Red Men powwow which will be held at Rushville on July fourth: Great Junior Sagamore Roy W. Emig, Matt Shaw, Gordon Mounts and John Hoagland, says the Columbus Republican. Mr. Emig was made chairman of the committee. Mayor Barnaby was appointed on the committee but he declined the honor, for the reason, he said, that he did not feel that he ought to leave his own city, in which there is to be big doings on that day.

A committee was also appointed to solicit members of the tribe to go to Rushville, but it is not expected that many will go, because of the Fourth of July celebration, which it to be held here. A special train will be run from Columbus.

VALUE OF MARL IS NOT KNOWN

Average Indiana Farmer Does Not Realize Potential Value of This Substance in Soil.

IS AS GOOD AS FERTILIZER

It Consists of Practically Same Chemical Properties—Soft Where Limestone is Hard.

That the average Indiana farmer does not realize the potential value of the marl to be found on the farms in many counties in the northern section of the State is the statement of Prof. S. D. Connor, chemist in Soils and Crops at the Purdue Experiment Station. In fact, some farmers are paying large sums for pulverized limestone for fertilizing purposes, when they already own vast beds of marl which could be used to splendid advantage for the same work.

"Strictly speaking," says the Purdue chemist, "marl is a mixture of clay and carbonate of lime. Some samples of Indiana marl contain over ninety per cent. of the carbonate and less than ten per cent clay, peat and sand. Between these extremes may be found all grades. Limestone, however, is also carbonate of lime and may vary in purity as widely as does the Indiana marl. The only difference between the marl and limestone, generally speaking, is that the stone is hard and the marl is soft. It may thus be readily seen that if the limestone is good for the soil, the marl would be equally good, and need not be used, as it is now, so extensively in the manufacture of cement.

Lime may be made by burning limestone or marl in a kiln, says Prof. Connor. Fifty-six pounds of pure lime can be made from 100 pounds pure limestone and it is stronger as an acid neutralizing substance in just that proportion. Lime, however, has some disadvantages that the ground limestone does not have, as it is more caustic. Lime is also higher in price, even in proportion to its strength, than the limestone. Marl, being still cheaper than limestone, is very much more economical than burned lime for agricultural purposes.

Marl in Indiana is found in the beds of lakes and in beds underlying muck and other soils. Sometimes marl had a tendency to form hard lumps on drying. This is true of the law of the low grade material that contains much clay. If marl is dug out and placed in piles in the autumn it will disintegrate before spring and will be in good condition to distribute either by manure spreader or by means of shovels.

The principal soils of northern Indiana that might be helped by marl applications are the thin, high clay spots in some of the fields where clover does not do well, as well as some of the sandy soils where red sorrel is prevalent. Huckleberry mucks are sour and need some sort of lime added before ordinary crops can be grown on them. Six or eight loads of marl per acre will put such soils in condition, provided phosphates and potash fertilizers are also added, to raise substantial crops.

As a rule, Prof. Connor maintains, all soils that need lime also need phosphoric acid as a fertilizer, and sometimes potash as well. The black soils do not need nitrogen. The Purdue Experiment station at Lafayette has recently published a circular on "Liming the Soil," as well as a bulletin on "Unproductive Black Soils," which treats of acid black soils as well as other unproductive black soils.

The test of soils for marl may be easily made. "If anyone wishes to test a deposit on his farm for marl," says Prof. Connor, "let him procure muriatic acid and after placing some of the soil in a tumbler, add the acid. If there is an effervescence or bubbling, is an indication of the presence of carbonate of lime (marl.) If the material is all dissolved, it is a very pure marl, and if a large part is not dissolved, it is an impure form. This test can also be applied to limestone."

Rush County Man Finds North Dakota is Modern

Dunseith, N. D., June 29, 1912.

You have asked me to write a (long) letter for publication describing this country. I shall now endeavor to grant your request. And it in my earnest wish that each person who shall read these words and who shall remember me with any degree of kindness, may deem this a personal letter from me, bearing my warmest greetings, filled with my kindest regards and fraught with my best good wishes.

North Dakota is a large State, 310 miles long and 214 miles wide. Its area is 70,795 square miles—twice as large as Indiana. It is a state of great, rolling prairies and treeless plains extending away as far as the weary eye can see, like the billows of a vast and boundless ocean. Dotted about these prairies are lonely farm buildings, scattered over the wide expanse, some of which appear as tiny specks on the far distant horizon. In many cases buildings can be seen ten, fifteen or twenty miles away.

Few trees gradden the eye of a Hoosier. Along the streams some small timber is found; and about Devils Lake, in the Turtle Mountains and in the Pembina Mountains are extensive timbered regions. About the course of the Missouri River large, tall cotton-woods grow.

This State has the richest, deepest, blackest loam—soil that ever gladdened the heart of man. Its richness and fertility seem boundless and inexhaustible.

The wealth of North Dakota lies in its waving fields of golden grain and in its rich, nutritious grasses. North Dakota wheat is the best in the world and commands the highest prices in all the markets. The grasses cure on the ground in the autumn by the weather and there furnish a fattening food for horses and cattle that run out and feed upon them during the winter. Stockmen say that the grasses of this State are the most nutritious of any state in the Union.

This is a progressive State. The last census reports show that the population of North Dakota increased 80 per cent in the last ten years. This was excelled by only other state in the Union. In per capita agricultural production, it ranks first, with a production of over $500.00 for every man, woman and child in the State; and North Dakota has the greatest per capita wealth of any state in the Union. The big red barn and the comfortable farm house are now familiar sights all over the State.

One of the characteristics of North Dakota scenery is the greatest numbers of lakes that are found everywhere. Littered thousands of these prevail and they are of all sizes from Devils Lake to mere pools. In some parts of the State, as in the Turtle Mountains, there is an average of a lake for every section of land.

Devils Lake is in the north-east-central part of the State. It is an exceedingly irregular body of salty water 55 miles long and 8 miles wide. It is a very beautiful lake. It has shady timbered shores and it has become a favorite summer resort. There the North Dakota Chautauqua meets every summer.

The Turtle Mountains are that Paradise of the Northwest. A soil of unequalled fertility and an abundance of rainfall combine with a favorable climate to make this the most desirable region of North Dakota. The timber tempers the winter wind, furnishes shade in the summer, gives building material and fuel in abundance, overcomes the high prairie gales and beautifies the landscape. A thousand different varieties of birds, some with the most beautiful flaming plumage, warble and twitter in the bushes; myriads of water fowl sport in the lakes; the grouse whirls through the brush; and the fishes sparkle in the waters. The sweet songs of the birds, the loud laugh of the loon, the call of the wild duck to her young, the drumming of the prairie chicken, the splash of the petrel and the cry of the gull are the sounds that laden the gentle breezes. The earth is carpeted over with wild strawberries, and wild cherries, wild plums and wild cranberries blush among the foliage and the air is sweet with wild roses.

The Turtle Mountains regions is destined by Nature to become the playground of the Northland. Its liquid lakes are of indiscribable beauty and its pretty groves, with trees of snow-white bark, are of surpassing attractiveness. Among its enchanted sylvan glens and about its sparkling limpid waters there are many summer resorts which beckon with a glad hand toward the sweltering Southland as if to say, "Come and enjoy our balmy summer breezes and make life happy while you may."

No crop failure has ever blighted the farms of the Turtle Mountains. Much more rain falls there than on the prairies surrounding, and in this country rain is a very valuable asset. Wheat easily produces from 30 to 40 bushels to the acre, oats yield 100 bushels to the acre and weigh about 40 pounds to the bushel and potatoes produce 400 bushels to the acre. Practically all the land in the Turtle Mountains is level enough to be easily formed. Some of this land can now be bought for less than ten dollars per acre.

The writer came to North Dakota three months ago to have charge of the schools of Dunseith. The State is well up in educational matters. Two sections of land in every township have been set aside for educational purposes and the law provides that school lands shall not be sold for less than ten dollars per acre. The school lands farm an area much larger than the state of Rhode Island. Other lands have donated to particular institutions. The educational fund of North Dakota, with a population of 500,000, is considerably greater than that of Indiana, with a population of 2,500,000. This liberal fund affords long terms of school and results in excellent salaries for teachers.

Dunseith is a city of about 600 inhabitants at the southern foot of the Turtle Mountains, seventy-five miles northwest of Devils Lake, at the end of a branch of the Great Northern railroad that "Jim" Hill built from the main line at York to the Turtle Mountains. It lies twelve miles from the Canadian line. Dunseith is 475 miles from St. Paul, and lies almost 1,000 miles beyond Chicago.

Dunseith has a full city government with a mayor, and police and fire department. It supports two banks, two first-class drug stores, a large hardware and implement store with large ware houses, a very large department store, six other stores, four grain elevators, a flour mill, three livery stables, two machine shops, a complete lumber yard and other industries. In the western part of the town along the banks of Willow River is a most attractive part of the western part of the town along the banks of Willow River is a most attractive little city park. Traveling men declare that Dunseith is one of the prettiest little cities in the northwest.

A new State Tuberculosis Hospital is nearing completion in the edge of town, an Indiana school is building near by, a fine new M. E. church is commencing and a new hotel is in prospect.

An idea of the business done here can be from the fact that, in four days recently, $60,000 was paid to shipped to Dunseith.

The railway for freight on goods.

The schools of Dunseith occupy a new frame building. They employ five teachers, have a full high school course and a complete manual training department.

he people of North Dakota, I find, are very progressive. They are open hearted and free from conventionalities. They know how to treat strangers with consideration and courtesy. The children are a good index to any community. Here in the schools I have found the most respectful, obedient and pleasant pupils that it has ever been my happy lot to have been associated with. In three months as head of the schools here, I have had no occasion to reprimand or scold. I am impelled to say to that they are the kindest lot of "kids" in the wide world.

Many people associate the name of Dakota with severe winters. It is true, the winters here are severe, but they are most healthful and pleasant. There is no damp, muddy, slushy winter weather. The atmosphere is very dry and pure and the cold is not felt. People make long drives in open rigs with the thermometer far below zero but they do not suffer from the cold. The majority of horses and cattle winter out and prefer the open to a shelter. When I came from Indiana I noticed the cold less up here than down home. The summers and autumns are most delightful, and the nights are always cool.

Many Indians may be seen upon the streets of Dunseith at any time. A large reservation is near by in the mountains. Many of the Indians cling to some of their aboriginal customs and dress. Tomorrow their Grass Dance and Sun Dance begins. These are very important events with them, and the Indians have been coming from long distances and for many days to attend these ancient customs of their tribe. The Sun Dance seems to have a two-fold purposes: First, it celebrates the arrival of spring and awakening of nature—like our Easter. Second, it is a test of endurance to determine who shall be the chief of the tribe. In this contest, the Indian dances continuously, without food or water, till he is overcome with fatigue. The brave that can hold out the longest is accorded the honors. At another time I may have occasion to write you about this dance and to describe the life of an aged chief of the Chippewa Indians, Rising Sun by name, who lives near Dunseith, and who has ever been, for almost a century, the steadfast friend of the White Man.

Yours Very Truly,
ORRIN E. WALKER.

PARCELS POST IS ADVOCATED

Indiana Postmasters Hear From an Authority.

A GREAT BENEFIT TO ALL

In Addressing the Indiana Association of Presidential Postmasters Inspector Birdseye of the Indiana District said the Parcels Post Was Bound to Come and That All Classes Would Be Benefited Thereby.

Indianapolis, June 29.—Inspector G. F. H. Birdseye of Cincinnati, in charge of this postoffice district, made a strong address in behalf of parcels post before the convention of the Indiana Association of Presidential Postmasters, in session here.

In his address Mr. Birdseye said that parcels post is bound to come. It will be as great a benefit to the farmers and rural communities, he said, as the great interurban system which centers in Indianapolis. At first interurban lines were opposed by some of the rural communities, he said, because it was thought the interurban lines might draw all business to the cities. Mr. Birdseye said it had been found that the interurban had helped the rural communities, and in like manner it will be found that parcels post will be a great benefit to everybody. Mr. Birdseye favored the government ownership of the telegraph and telephone systems, and the centering of those systems in the postoffices.

ALTITUDES IN UNITED STATES

Differences Between East and West Are Remarkable in Their Wide Variety.

The differences between the eastern and western elevations in this country are curiously striking. Colorado has 40 peaks that are more than 14,000 feet above sea level. Mount Washington, in New Hampshire, and Mount Mitchell, in North Carolina, the highest peaks in the Appalachian system north and south, respectively, are considerable less than half as high as this above the ocean.

Several transcontinental railway lines in the west pull their main line trains over greater elevations than that reached by the cog railroad up New Hampshire's above-mentioned peak. These western elevations are, of course, reached gradually.

Most large cities lie low. Chicago is only about 600 feet above sea level, and Pittsburgh but 100 feet higher. Philadelphia ranges from sea level to a height in its suburbs of some 300 feet. Minneapolis, near the head of the Mississippi, has an elevation of less than 1,000 feet; and various parts of New Orleans at the mouth of the great river are recorded in the government tables as having elevations of from one to fifty feet. St. Louis lies about half way between these terminal cities.

Montana is away up, with its leading city perched at the elevation of the highest peaks of the Adirondack mountains. In Denver there is a mark, near the State Capitol, which is just one mile above the sea level.

INCIDENTS MARK THIS DAY'S WORK

Platform Makers Besieged By Suppliants.

HOW ONE WOMAN WON OUT

Persistence of the Promoter of a Better Regard For Uniform of United States Soldiers and Sailors Gained a Hearing, but the Pompous Representative Littlepage Was Not So Successful.

Baltimore, June 29.—The latest things in popular government are endorsed by the Bryan platform. It boasts presidential primaries. Taking a lead from the Roosevelt record made at Chicago, the Bryan platform urges that newly elected national committeemen shall begin doing business on the eve of the convention. The adoption of the Bryan platform places the party on record as opposed to a second term in the presidency. Democrats think that the single term idea will prove popular.

The debate over arbitration stirred up more trouble in the resolutions committee than any other question, but what the platform has to say on the subject of arbitration is framed in language that will not offend anyone.

Woman's suffrage is not mentioned in the platform. The suffragettes stormed the committee, which, while friendly to woman suffrage, came to the conclusion that the movement had no place in a national platform.

Amateur platform makers fairly besieged the committee room. Mrs. Russell MacLennan, president of the society organized to further the movement to protect the dignity of the uniform of American soldiers and sailors, was among them. Mrs. MacLennan is a fine-looking woman and she is full of fight.

"Too late, madam," responded the guard at the door when Mrs. MacLennan asked for admission to present her cause.

"It's never too late to present a good case," replied Mrs. MacLennan. Senator Pomerene was summoned. Mrs. MacLennan assured him it meant a million votes to the Democratic party, and asked him to think it over.

Pomerene thought it over for a minute and told Mrs. MacLennan to draw up the plank. She did. It was embodied in the platform by a unanimous vote.

A person of majestic proportions, perfectly at peace with himself, attempted to break into the resolutions committee. J. M. Sullivan of Elmira, N. Y., the guard on duty, laid a detaining hand on his shoulder.

"You cannot go in there, sir," he remarked in a rich Irish brogue, "the committee is in session."

The stranger was indignant. "Do you know who you are addressing?" he demanded. Sullivan replied that he did not, and furthermore that he did not care a darn, or words to that effect. The stranger again expressed his indignation. Sullivan replied with a bunch of colloquial terms that forced his antagonist to retreat.

"I am appalled at such language and treatment," said the stranger. "I am a leader of the party, and yet I am treated harshly by a mere servant."

"G'wan," responded Sullivan. "I want to leave my card," returned the stranger.

Sullivan grabbed the card as the stranger melted away in the crowd. It read: "Adam B. Littlepage, member of congress from West Virginia." Littlepage came into public notice at the beginning of his career by printing in the Congressional Record one of the most remarkable biographies ever penned. In it he glowingly eulogized himself.

Just before he quit the committee room, Bryan again took occasion to eulogize the platform.

"It is a remarkable document," he said.

MAKING SAFE

Congress Preparing to Overcome the Financial Quandary.

Washington, June 29.—Lack of co-operation between President Taft the house and the senate has brought failure to all attempts to avert the embarrassment threatening the government next Monday, July 1, owing to lack of appropriation bills. The plan now is to pass next Monday a resolution extending existing appropriations. Leaders declare this will be in time to prevent any difficulty or embarrassment to the executive.

Moffat Heads National Association. Chicago, June 29.—The National Press association concluded its annual session here after electing these officers: President, A. D. Moffat, Elwood, Ind.; vice president, John Clyde Oswald, New York; treasurer, W. R. Hodges, Minnesota; secretary, George Schloesser, South Dakota.

Must Fight or Run.

El Paso, Tex., June 29.—The Mexican federal army has succeeded in crossing the Ortiz bridge over the San Pedro river, south of Bachimba, and the fighting cannot be postponed many hours, as the two main armies are now face to face.

MANAGING A MATURE BULL

Animal Should Be Kept in Well Fenced Pasture—Ration of Wheat and Ground Oats is Good.

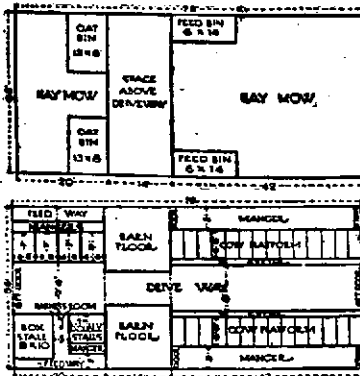

The service bull should be kept in a well-fenced grass pasture with a shed to go under in stormy weather during the grazing season. Give a mixed grain ration of wheat bran and ground oats. Give two or three quarts of grain night and morning. If grass is short, an armful of cornfodder should be fed twice a day. The cow to be served may be turned into the lot with the bull; after service, give a small feed of bran and while bull is eating, throw the stanchion lever, thus securely fastening the bull; the cow may then be removed without danger. By having the cows served so that part of the herd will come fresh in the fall and part in the spring, a regular quantity of milk may be had the year round, without the necessity of selling off half-fat cows at ruinous prices and buying in fresh cows at high prices. When this method is followed, the dairyman is always in debt to the cow dealer.

The bull should be kept in good thrifty condition. A cross bull may often be tamed by turning one or two dry cows into the lot with him. Bulls should have daily exercise and be grain fed. If this is not done, they may become impatient or slow in serving. The young bull should be kept in a separate pasture and not allowed to run with the heifers.

PLAN OF SATISFACTORY BARN

Building With Cement Basement and Holding Twenty-Eight Cows Is Described and Illustrated.

My barn has a cement basement, the walls being eight feet in the clear, excepting where the driveway goes through, writes W. J. Yarnall in the Breeders' Gazette. The side walls are 16 inches at the bottom and 12 inches at the top. The end walls are 14 inches at the bottom and the same at the top. The driveway goes through on the level of the ground or about four inches above the ground level. It all has a cement floor. The barn cost in all about $3,000. The cement basement cost with the wall about $1,000 of this.

The barn holds 28 cows, 14 cows on a side. It also holds eight horses. It has one box-stall, one double stall and four single stalls, and a harness room.

Keeping Milk Sweet.

One of our enterprising dairymen sent a bottle of milk to Paris at the time of the exposition. It made the journey over and back, a trip of 28 days, and was still sweet. There was no preservatives used, and the only precaution was to have the dishes and bottle perfectly sterile, cooling the milk at once and keeping it all the time at a low temperature. This seems a good while to keep milk sweet, but it shows what cleanliness and a low temperature can do with milk.

DAIRY NOTES

The baby calf should have her rations changed by degrees.

Name the calves from the first and their training will be much easier.

A calf should be fed five times daily about three pints at each meal. One of the greatest mistakes in dairy farming is having too much land.

No farmer can afford to have a cheap, inferior made silo on his farm.

Regularity in feeding and milking will go a long way toward making dairy work successful.

After a cow begins giving new milk you will find that her udder is sometimes "caked." Rub it gently.

A cold rain, fall or spring rain, will check the flow of milk as much as a snow storm if the cows are exposed.

Look out for the gentle bull. Remember that it is not usually the roaring, bellowing, blustering bull that does the killing.

Do not feed the cows corn meal if you are feeding corn silage, for there is as much corn in the silage as the cows should have.

Butter from fresh and properly ripened cream not over one day old keeps better than does butter made from sweet cream.

A sore teat (remember the sore may be inside) will cause a cow to kick, but if handled gently she will not take on the kicking habit.

The heifer that is cared for and handled gently throughout her entire life will need a little breaking in when it comes time to milk her.

The long, flat-bottomed udder of the Ayrshire is typical of the breed, and no other breed is able to show such wonderful development of the fore udder.

CARL MORRIS IN SUPERB RECITAL

Ball." The aria which Mr. Morris sang last evening is said to be one of the most important of the famous composer's expressions, and that portion illustrated by Mr. Morris—the accusation, threat and later despairing admission of uncalled for suspicion of one of the principals against his wife—is regarded by musicians as the emotional and musical climax of Verdi's genius.

Mr. Morris had to respond with two encores during the program. The first came after the series of four nocturnes by Wilfrid Sanderson, in which Mr. Morris was excellent. He sang the last of the four "Harbour Night Song" with vim and dash that won the instant admiration of the audience. The crowd would not allow him to refuse to sing.

His encore was appropriately chosen. It was "Thoughts of Home" from the opera "Love's Lottery," by Julian Edwards. It was sung, inspired by the sentiment that it was, with a sympathetic and feeling note that had a visible effect on the audience. Although the audience had a preference for the aria from "The Masked Ball," it is doubtful if that were any more of a triumph than was this operatic selection.

Mr. Morris came on to this selection in a strange manner. Julian Edwards who wrote the opera, "Love's Lottery," in which Schumann-Heink appeared, died a few years ago. Last winter the widow of the composer gave a memorial recital for her dead husband in Carnegie Hall, New York. She selected the most talented soloists of New York City for the program.

She requested Mr. Morris to sing "Thoughts of Home." He complied with the request, and received such applause and favorable comment for it as he scarcely ever has since he began his brilliant career in the music world. That song was so adapted that he has since relied on it in many engagements for an encore, and has always found that it never failed to create a distinct impression.

Of the four nocturnes Mr. Morris sang, "The Crescent Moon" was probably the sweetest. It verged, on the air of the popular tune, at the same time it could hardly be classed as such. "O Night! O Life!" the first of the series, won a ripple of applause, and the second "Tired Hands" in which Mr. Morris struck a sympathetic note that was very pleasing.

was even better received.

In the first number on the program "Now is the Month of Maying," a sixteenth century composition, Mr. Morris won instant attention, and in the second of the first series of four, "The Foggy Dew," he was superb. The third, "Meet Me By Moonlight" gave Mr. Morris an opportunity to display his wonderful range of voice. The first series closed with "The Lark Now Leaves His Watery Nest," by Horatio Parker.

In the third series of the program Mr. Morris sang the Bruno Huhn selection, "Invictus." The popular one of this series was the second "A Banjo Song," one of Sidney Homer's beautiful negro melodies. Mr. Morris sang it in the negro dialect in a very clever manner.

"I Hear You Calling Me," by Charles Marshall, was sweet, because of the tender melody Mr. Morris produced in singing it. It is the song that was made famous by McCormie. "Young Tom of Devon," by Kennedy Russell, was a humorous selection that won several rounds of applause.

Mr. Morris sang "Shepherd, See Thy Horse's Foaming Mane," the first of the last series of four on the program, with characteristic vigor. The melodious song, "Mary," the next of the series, was centered about the sentiment attached to the name, and it created a sentiment in the audience that was noticeable. "In the Time of Roses," by Reichardt, and "A Birthday" by Cowen, the closing numbers, were applauded deservedly.

Mrs. S. K. Ruick of Indianapolis, who was the accompanist, was complimented after the recital for her excellent work.

The crowd was estimated at five hundred. It was such that it was not only pleasing to the chautauqua management, but also to Carl Morris. The night was warm, and the crowd in vehicles and seated on the lawn outside the Coliseum, was almost equal to the crowd inside.

DEMOCRATS STILL AT SEA

wavering. During the course of last night and again during the recess today, the managers of the Clark campaign were importuning the Underwood people to drop the Alabama man and go to Clark, but the answer was an emphatic no.

Before the test came the generally accepted view was that whenever Clark needed the Underwood votes he would get them. This was an assumption arrived at by the reasoning route which led observers to suppose that Underwood would like to see Clark nominated because the nomination and election in all probability would make Underwood speaker of the house of representatives.

Boss Murphy of Tammany, was the central figure in the badly muddled situation. When the national convention, wearied with fruitless balloting for their presidential candidate took a recess this morning until 1 p. m. today, the action was on the demand of the Tammany leader.

Murphy was up again today. His effort to assume the role of a national leader had resulted in a deadlock. It was expected to force further protracted sessions and may finally result in a brand new deal as far as candidates are concerned.

NO MORE GAMES ON SUNDAY MORNING

WALDORFS HERE TOMORROW

There will be no more ball games at the South Main street grounds on Sunday morning, according to an order issued today by Manager Malbaugh. Many complaints against the Sunday morning games have been heard and in order to end the kicks the games will be discontinued.

The game with the Richmond Waldorfs tomorrow afternoon will be called at three o'clock. The Rushville line-up will remain unchanged.

"Scottie" Cooley, the lengthy Connorsville pitcher has been secured to pitch one of the games for the locals July 4 against the Bruce-Ramblers of Shelbyville. Cooley will probably pitch the afternoon contest and Avery the morning game. Brookville will be here July 7 and on July 14 the team will go to Columbus.

FOES OF THE MOSQUITO.

Not only are the farmers in the Middle West coming more and more to protect birds, but some of the institutions in that section have used birds to their advantage. Among the latter is Winona Assembly of Winona Lake, Indiana.

Winona Assembly is on the east bank of Lake Winona where, in the early days, the west winds carried mosquitoes into the community. There were times when the pests were very annoying to the crowds that were in the auditorium of the Assembly, listening to the lyceum entertainments. Then Isaac W. Brown, of Rochester, Indiana, an ornithologist, known as "The Bird and Bee Man," came forward with a suggestion.

He proposed that the Assembly build homes for purple martins, arguing that a sufficient colony of these birds would reduce the mosquito pest. The Winona Lake officers followed his suggestion, and now there are hundreds of these birds at Winona Lake every summer. The mosquitoes have disappeared.

THEODORE MIGHT HAVE NAMED MAN

Taft Leaders, on Return to Washington, Tell President His Nomination Hung by Thread.

WATSON FURTHER CONFIRMED

Former President Would Not Consent to Anything Except His Own Selection to Head Party.

The following dispatch from Washington further confirms the statement made by James E. Watson on his return from the Chicago convention that Roosevelt's policy was "rule or ruin."

With the return to Washington of many of the leaders who aided in the renomination of President Taft, the President learned, for the first time, that there were minutes during the Chicago convention when his nomination hung by a thread.

Theodore Roosevelt, according to one leader, had the opportunity within his grasp to stand aside, throw his strength to a compromise candidate and see both himself and President Taft eliminated from the contest. The President told callers that to Mr. Roosevelt he owed his nomination in 1908, and to Mr. Roosevelt, more than to any other man, he owed his renomination last Saturday night.

Although some of the Taft leaders profess that there was never any danger of defections in their ranks others are known to have openly talked of a compromise candidate and to have made advances to some adherents of Roosevelt.

According to reports brought back to Washington these offers went to Roosevelt and they were turned down. He would not listen to talk of a third man, and the Taft leaders, seeing no opportunity to "get together" went ahead and nominated the President.

FARMERS BUSY IN CLOVER HARVEST

This Crop of May is Excellent and Weather is Favorable For Cutting It.

VALUE AS FORAGE PRODUCT

The clover hay harvest is fully started in all parts of the county, and about as much of this sort of hay as usual is being stored away, taking the county as a whole. The crop is fairly good, to say the least, though many fields were marred in their appearance, while growing, by weeds. The weather of the last week has favored the work, which is not very well advanced, with the result that many thousands of tons of the rich feed now lies in the mows, ready for the winter use of live stock. While the value or rather the safety of the use, of this hay for horses is questioned by many farmers, its excellence for nearly all other stock is beyond dispute. The only objection in the case of horses arises from a fine and irritating dust which is produced by the partial decay of a minute and down-like growth upon the clover stems, and which is said to have a tendency to set up inflammation in the throats and lungs of horses. Despite this, clover hay is one of the most valuable of all forage products.

It isn't the not having things that bothers us so much as the seeing others have them who do not appear any more worthy of them than we ourselves.
